

Submission Guidelines for IASIA Full Paper

Dear IASIA participant

We sincerely thank you for submitting an abstract to the IASIA 2026 Conference. As one of the 600 presenters, you are an important part of this year's program, and we look forward to your presentation. To ensure the professional delivery of your full paper, we kindly ask that you take note of the following guidelines.

Generalities

Each submission should be developed in line with its specific format- whether empirical, theoretical, or case-oriented- and conform to accepted academic conventions. Presentations should be structured to highlight the central problem, main insights, and any limitations, and should be delivered within a 15-minute timeframe. The use of visual aids is optional, though they may be used to support clarity and engagement.

Contributions are expected to be analytically robust, supported by a coherent conceptual grounding and appropriate methodological design. Submissions may take the form of data-driven studies, theoretical explorations, or case-based analyses. For single-case contributions, authors should aim to draw out broader implications to ensure relevance beyond the immediate context.

The conference welcomes diverse forms of scholarly work, including qualitative and quantitative research, case studies, and critical or literature-based analyses. Authors should clearly outline the purpose of their work, its contribution, the methods applied, and the key outcomes, including any limitations encountered

Thorough adherence to the guidelines outlined herein is requested.

Language

Papers should be submitted in English, ensuring proper grammar, punctuation and spelling. Submission: All contributions will be submitted through the ConfTool system by the stipulated deadlines. For your final submission, it is crucial that you submit a thoroughly revised paper that fully considers all the feedback provided by the reviewers.

Final Paper

The deadline for submitting the final paper is August 31, 2026.

Authors whose abstracts have been accepted should submit a final paper of between 3000 and 6000 words in doc/docx or PDF version and follow the layout below. Papers that do not adhere to the required structure, or for which a full paper has not been submitted, will not be included in the conference programme.

Title Page

This section should include the relevant working group where the paper will be presented. Further, the title of the paper, the names, surnames, email addresses, and affiliations of authors, the 500-word abstract and 3 – 5 keywords.

Abstract (500 words)

Please follow the feedback received from the abstract reviewers.

- Problem statement: What is the problem you address?
- Purpose: What is the aim of the paper?
- Methodology: What method(s) did you use to research this problem?
- Findings: What are the main findings from this research?
- Keywords: Add 3-5 keywords relevant to your paper.

Introduction

This section should include a clear description of the paper's structure. The research problem, aim, research question(s), and significance of the text should be well outlined.

Main Body

Contents in this section should be organized into headings and subheadings. The suggested structure is:

- Theoretical framework: on the basis of the literature, some abstract elements are selected, through which the empirical material will be analyzed.
  - Methodology and data collection: this section describes the empirical material which will be analyzed, and explains how the data has been collected
  - Findings: This section presents the empirical material through the abstract categories selected in the theoretical framework.
- The figures, tables, and equations used should be of high quality.

Conclusion

This section should mirror the introduction, summarizing each section of the paper. It should discuss the limitations of the research, its implications for unstudied cases and include potential future research directions.

References

This section should include a list of all the sources cited in the paper in APA style.

Presentation and Registration Conditions

All presentations will be delivered on-site, and presenters are expected to be at the conference venue to ensure full participation and engagement in the programme.

Only authors who have completed their registration by 31 August 2026 will be included in the main conference programme. Submissions without confirmed registration by this deadline may not be scheduled.

Each session is scheduled to run for 90 minutes, with 15 minutes allocated to each presenter. Presenters should prepare their presentations using PowerPoint, submit a version on ConfTool prior to their presentation date and have a copy saved on a flash drive on their presentation date.

Please find the PowerPoint template here.
